GÖTTINGEN SUMMER SCHOOL

»Relations between the EU and the emerging global players«

Göttingen, Germany | August 15-26, 2011

Description

At the end of August 2011 the Summer School »Relations between the EU and the emerging global players« will take place in Göttingen (Germany) for the second time. Students and professors from twelve European universities will discuss the economic, commercial and political relations between the EU and emerging global players with emphasis on China and India. Participants will enjoy a rich programme consisting of lectures, workshops, research tasks and excursions. In addition, they will get in touch with companies, professional experts and politicians in the host region in these two weeks. Please see on the website for the programme details.

»Participating in the Summer School was a great experience. I have enriched my knowledge of international economics and understanding for cultural differences in the EU and worldwide.«
